Clogher Bishops attend Ecumenical Prayer Service for Pentecost

Since 2000, the Roman Catholic and Church of Ireland bishops of Clogher have come together, along with members of their respective Church communities to mark together the Day of Pentecost or Pentecost Sunday, as it also known.

The Day of Pentecost marks the end of the fifty-day season of Easter. Moreover, it marks the descent of the Holy Spirit in the upper room and the beginning of apostolic preaching, thus marking a defining moment in the origin of the Christian Church. Christian associations with the feast begin with Acts of the Apostles 2: 1-45.

Bishops arriving for the service

Each year, a site of historic significance in relation to the origins of the Christian church in different parts of the diocese is chosen to host this Ecumenical Service. The venue for this year's outdoor Pentecost service, Donagh Old Graveyard, is settled on a hillside close to Glaslough village, and is considered to be one of the oldest ecclesiastical sites in the country and is on a pilgrimage route associated with St Patrick. Within this protected graveyard there are the ruins of a medieval church which remained in use until 1690, a beautiful stone cross known as the Donagh Cross or the McKenna Cross (described by various experts as being 10th to 12th century), two cross-bases, two 17th century grave-slabs and a cross-shaped headstone dated 1666 as well as numerous examples of headstones with intricate evocative folk art inscribed upon them.

There was a good attendance at this year's Ecumenical Prayer Service for Pentecost held on Sunday, 5th June in

June 8, 2022

Donagh Old Graveyard, in Donagh Parish, Glaslough, Co. Monaghan.

The afternoon open air service was attended by people from across Fermanagh and Monaghan including parishioners of St Salvator's Parish Church, Glaslough as well as members of the congregation of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Glennan, where everyone parked to get the shuttle bus to the graveyard a short distance away.

The service was attended by the two Bishops of Clogher, the Right Revd Dr. Ian Ellis, who gave the address, and the Most Revd Larry Duffy. The service was conducted by Fr. Hubert Martin, of St. Mary's assisted by Revd Margaret Pringle, who is looking after services in the Church of Ireland Donagh Group of parishes. The opening greeting and prayers were led by Bishop Larry Duffy.

During the service, two young people spoke about their views on Pentecost; Emma McQuaid from Beech Hill College and Sophie Brennan from Monaghan Collegiate.

The praise was led by Donagh Community Choir trained by Mrs Ethne McCord and accompanied by Mr Gerard Toal on the keyboard.

Bishop Ian Ellis, in his address reflected on what difference the Holy Spirit made to people's personal lives and church life.

He focused on three main themes; Change, Clarity and Conviction.

June 8, 2022

He said the dramatic events of the first Pentecost changed the disciples for ever. They were utterly changed and transformed.

Congratulations, good wishes and prayers of Methodist people in Ireland to Her Majesty The Queen

The President and Lay Leader have written to Her Majesty as follows to convey their congratulations, good wishes and prayers of the Methodist people in Ireland. They state -

Madam,

With our humble duty, we have the honour to convey to Your Majesty the congratulations, good wishes and prayers of the people, clergy and staff of the Methodist Church in Ireland to you on the occasion of your Platinum Jubilee.

Our church, which covers the entire island of Ireland, is very much aware that, within your reign, the people of our island have moved from polarisation to peace, that your state visit to Ireland and President Higgins's to the UK marked milestones in the relations between our nations, and that your example of dignity and public service has inspired as many outside of your realm as within.

As a church, we are also grateful to you for the focus you have placed on faith - both as a concept and as your daily lived experience - as a force for good in public and private life and we look forward to continuing our ecumenical and inter-faith relations with other churches with renewed vigour in the spirit of your ongoing example

We also admire and pay tribute to your devotion to your family - not only biological, but national, Commonwealth and church - and acknowledge the bittersweetness that must exist with celebrating such a momentously long reign in tandem with remembering your beloved late father whose passing precipitated that reign.

We wish Your Majesty and your family every happiness on this Jubilee and continued blessings hereafter, and be assured always of the prayerful thoughts of the Methodist people in Ireland.

We have the honour to be, Madam,
Your Majesty's humble servants,
Rev Dr Sahr Yambasu
President of the Methodist Church in Ireland

Carnmoney Parish Jubilee Party

A correspondent writes - The weather was fabulous for our Platinum Jubilee Party on Friday 3rd June, attended by over 160 people. Many people came in fancy dress and we had entertainment for the children in the form of games and a performance from Bonzo the clown (who also met our new mayor Counsellor Stephen Ross who called in). Over 160 people of all ages enjoyed a meal in the hall before entertainment and dancing led by Joe Lagen as we celebrated 70 years of faithful service from our Queen.

Wilson's Hospital pupil success at Junk Kouture

Junk Kouture is an international youth fashion and sustainability competition where teenagers from six different countries compete to make fashion from recycled materials.

The 5th of May saw the first of six worldwide city finals in Dublin and over 60 young people from across the country competing. Winner of the Western Region heat, and the All Ireland final was Clodagh Ramsey, student at Wilson's Hospital School and member of All Saint's Mullingar.

Clodagh grew her costume over a six month period. Her skirt and headdress are made from dried Pampas grass whilst her bodice is constructed from Cork with Moss growing on the outside of it. The shoulders are made of living Black Grasses which are grown in recycled cat food pouches filled with soil.

June 8, 2022

Maintaining the garment is some feat; Clodagh has to water the Grasses and the Moss daily, and carried a spray bottle during the Dublin final to prevent it from drying out under the lights!

Clodagh says that the biggest problem is keeping her dress alive as it all needs light and air. The Moss, however, prefers shade whilst the neighbouring grasses need direct sunlight in order to thrive. It has proven quite the challenge to give each part of her design the optimum conditions.

Clodagh was thrilled to be made the All-Ireland winner and will be going to Abu Dhabi in the Autumn to compete in the World finals, hopefully she can keep her kouture alive until then!

Coverage of the Junk Kouture Dublin final was on RTE 2 on the 19th of May at

At least 50 Christians killed in yet another violent attack in Nigeria

In yet more distressing news from Nigeria, at least 50 Christians have been killed and several more abducted in an attack on a church as it gathered to celebrate Pentecost, Open Doors reports.

At least 50 Christians, including children, have been killed and dozens injured in an attack on a church in south west

June 8, 2022

Nigeria as it gathered to celebrate Pentecost. Several believers were also kidnapped.

The attackers shot at people outside and inside St Francis Catholic Church in the town of Owo in Ondo State on Sunday (5 June). Explosives were also detonated. The presiding priest is among those abducted.

No one has yet claimed responsibility for the attack, but Adeyemi Olayemi, a lawmaker in Ondo, told The Guardian that the attackers are believed to have been militant Fulani herdsmen in retaliation to the state recently imposing restrictions on grazing following a surge in kidnappings.

“We have enjoyed improved security since herdsmen were driven away from our forests by this administration,” Olayemi said. “This is a reprisal attack to send a diabolical message to the governor.” Open Doors is investigating these claims.

Insurgency spreads to Christian-majority south

This latest attack reflects how the Islamic insurgency typically concentrated in northern Nigeria and the Middle Belt is affecting other parts of the country, including the Christian-majority south where Owo is located.

“The south of Nigeria is known for being peaceful and safe for the church, but now things are changing,” shares Zula, Open Doors country manager for Nigeria. “The violence from the north and Middle Belt is spreading rapidly and this is the result of violence that has gone unpunished.”

"The south of Nigeria is known for being peaceful and safe for the church, but now things are changing" Zula

Last week, the head of the Methodist Church in Nigeria was abducted along with two other clerics in the south east of the country. They were later released after a ransom was paid.

Nigeria is number seven on the World Watch List, but it would be number one if it were based purely on violence. More Christians were killed there last year for their faith than in all other countries combined.

Please pray as attacks bring trauma, fear and doubt

“We condemn in the strongest terms possible the attack on Christians as they gathered in peace to worship God,” says Jo Newhouse, Open Doors’ spokesperson for sub-Saharan Africa. “We call on the Nigerian government to adequately discharge its legal obligation of duty to protect its citizens, both under international and domestic legal regimes.

“We also call upon the authorities to take a strong stance against all violence, including Fulani militant violence, investigate the perpetrators, hold them accountable to the justice system and break the cycle of violence that is expanding to other areas of the country, as is clearly shown by this incident. The longer these acts go unpunished, the longer they will continue.”

“People are full of trauma,” says Zula, who adds that many Christians are not going to church for fear of attack, or even stopping travelling on roads to avoid abduction. “Continue to pray for faith to be increased as well, because having seen these things going on it affects the faith of many. They begin to question God – whether God is still alive. Let’s keep praying for the church in southern Nigeria and Nigeria as a whole. Thank you.”

The charities regulator has written to Trócaire, the overseas development agency of the Catholic Church in Ireland, to “remind” it that any future political activity must “directly advance and support [its] stated charitable purposes”.

All things by a law divine
