RHI Inquiry: As cash for ash was starting to implode, a more lucrative tariff was proposed

INews

At the point where Stormont officials were unaware that the RHI scheme was beginning to run out of control they were exploring the possibility of introducing an even more lucrative tariff, it has emerged. The Department of Enterprise, Trade and Investment (DETI), was also considering a second change which would have made RHI more financially attractive to claimants, the public inquiry into the cash for ash scandal was today told.
