How, and why, did Scappaticci survive the IRA's wrath?

Irish Times - John Ware writes -After being outed as informer 'Stakeknife', he escaped the punishment many before him suffered "By 2007, the conflict in Northern Ireland had claimed 3,720 lives. Due partly to Sinn Féin's laser-like focus, attention on the 367 killed by British forces has eclipsed the 2,152 killed by the IRA and other republican groups.

Very little attention, by comparison, has been paid to the 1,738 members of the security forces killed by the IRA, and none at all on those murdered by the IRA for spying – some 70 people."
