Observer

Report that local councils have accused the Home Office of ignoring offers to house hundreds of unaccompanied child migrants as controversy grows over the sudden closure of the scheme to admit lone child refugees made possible by the Dubs amendment to the Immigration Act. The Bishop of Croydon, Jonathan Clark, is quoted, urging the Home Office to reappraise the UK's capacity to accept more child refugees.

S Times

Reports on plans at BBC Radio 3 for International Women's Day on Wednesday. The Choral Evensong service will be broadcast live from Truro Cathedral and will provide one of the first opportunities for the listeners to hear its girl choristers. All the bespoke pieces of music in the service have been written by women. The article notes that official listening figures for Choral Evensong, covering the last quarter of 2016, show that it now has the biggest audience in its history.
