Glengormley school encounter

Last week Edmund Rice College team took a well earned break from their project work in Zambia to explore the stunning Chaminku Game Reserve Park.

The journey itself was an adventure & the experience was unforgettable with encounters with some of Africa's most iconic wildlife in their natural habitat.

From zebras grazing under the open sky to elephants meandering through the fields & even a rare glimpse of a giraffe towering above the treetops, the experience was nothing short of awe inspiring. It was a chance for the group to pause, reflect, and connect with the beauty of the Zambian landscape.

This outing added a new dimension to the Project Zambia journey, reminding everyone that just as much as this trip is about giving, learning & building relationships, it's also about embracing the wonder of the world around them!

St. Anne's Shandon is delighted to congratulate Bernadette Shannon and Joshua Rowan, who got engaged at the top of the Shandon tower on June 17th.

The couple had flown over from Edinburgh just that morning, and Joshua's plan was to surprise Bernadette by proposing in the very same spot her parents, Bernard and Margaret Shannon, got engaged over 40 years ago!

“What an honour to be the starting place for two generations of family! Blessings to you both and to your families.”

Laura has served as the worship leader at St Saviour's Church for 52 years, ever since the church opened in 1972. It is because of this faithfulness and longevity that she has been rightly honoured in this way.

Curate in Charge of St Saviour's, Stu Armstrong, said, "We are so incredibly proud of Laura. She has an amazing heart for Jesus and His people, and this is a wonderful way to honour that heart and the faithfulness with which she serves."

Racism and sectarianism are always wrong - Bishops in Derry

Joint statement by the Bishop of Derry, Most Rev'd Dr Donal McKeown and the Bishop of Derry and Raphoe, Rt Rev'd Andrew Forster on the recent violence in Derry-Londonderry

Like the vast majority of people in our community, we are deeply saddened by the violence we have seen in our city in recent days. There can be no justification for attacks on police officers and property. Any attempt to foment trouble or foster division among us, or to intimidate and terrorise people because of their race or religion, should be resisted and rejected.

JUNE 23, 2025

Racism and sectarianism are always wrong. Jesus Christ could hardly have been clearer: he calls us to love one another.

The scenes we have witnessed here recently are countercultural. Our city enjoys a reputation for being a friendly, welcoming and neighbourly city. We should cherish that reputation and protect it.

The kind of trouble we have seen this week is described by some as “recreational rioting”, but it can have potentially disastrous and life-lasting consequences for the perpetrators, and life-changing consequences for its victims. It is distressing, too, for the youngest and oldest of our neighbours who live in the areas where it has been happening.

We call for calm and restraint at this time. We urge anyone with influence over young people involved in the trouble, and whose futures might be blighted by criminal records, to counsel them wisely: don't get drawn into violence; don't listen to hate mongers; you are better than this; we are better than this.

The Learning Process in Cork, Cloyne and Ross

The Children and Family Ministry Working Group in the United Dioceses of Cork, Cloyne and Ross, in dialogue with the Bishop, the Right Reverend Dr Paul Colton,

have developed a Learning Process to encourage all

parishes in the Diocese to reflect on their outreach, inclusion and engagement of children and families.

The Learning Process was piloted in three parishes: Cobh and Glanmire Union, Fanlobbus Union, and Kinsale Union. They presented their experiences at the CCR Children and Family Ministry Gathering on 1st March, and a summary presentation on plans for the Learning Presentation was given at the clergy day conference on 3rd March.

The Learning Process is now being rolled out across the entire Diocese of Cork, Cloyne and Ross.

JUNE 23, 2025

Bishop Colton explained: “A renewed focus on children and family ministry was one of the objectives I set for my silver jubilee year as bishop in 2024. I am delighted to have had the partnership in this of both the Children and Family Ministry Group in the Diocese which is convened by the Reverend Abigail Sines, and also the Diocesan Board of Education. A lot of work went into preparing the materials and testing the process in pilot parishes. Now I encourage every parish and chaplaincy to engage with this process”.

The upcoming summer offers a great opportunity to engage with families and to gather input for the learning process. This can place in a variety of ways — over a cuppa in the hall, a picnic in the church yard or an informal chat after a Sunday morning service.

All parishes in the Diocese are encouraged to complete their Learning Process portfolio by Friday, 14 November upon which they will receive a basket with family ministry resources and a framed certificate. All parishioners and visitors will be able to see the certificate displayed in the church or church hall once the parish’s participation is certified.

The convenor of the Cork, Cloyne and Ross Children and Family Ministry Group, the Reverend Abigail Sines, said:

The Learning Process is an opportunity to engage with parishioners in an intentional and creative way. It will open up a space to develop ideas for projects or initiatives to strengthen engagement with children and families.

Live the gift of your priesthood with humility and meekness, Pope Leo

In a meeting with priests from the Pontifical Ecclesiastical Academy this morning, Pope

Leo urged the men who have completed a year of missionary service to remain ‘shepherds with their feet on the ground.’

“I urge you to live the gift of your priesthood with humility and meekness, with the ability to listen and to remain close to others,” the Pope said, calling them to be “faithful and tireless disciples of Christ the Good Shepherd.”

The purpose of the Pontifical Ecclesiastical Academy is to prepare young ecclesiastics for the diplomatic service of the Holy See through a program of specialised studies, following the completion of an ecclesiastical degree.

Leaving assemblies - Holy Trinity National School

We bade a fond farewell to 6th class. In class we played Mr Fallon's brilliant boardgame Bainisteoir.

And in the playground there was a brisk business in signing t-shirts.

At the Leaving Assembly we enjoyed a photo-story recap of the year. The children shared poems they had written, and they danced. (Thank you to Bernadine Cresham-Ball our tireless dance teacher)

We then watched a whistlestop visual collage of the children's 8 years in primary school from when they were tiny tots in Junior Infants right up to their present 6th class fully fledged form.

We will miss these wonderful children who have contributed so much to our school, and we look forward to their return visits in the future.

Cathedral Calls

80 years of Christian Aid's impact celebrated in Belfast Cathedral

Eight decades of generosity, prayer, advocacy and humanitarian response were celebrated on Friday evening (20th June) at Belfast Cathedral at a special service of thanksgiving to mark Christian Aid Ireland turning 80.

The service was held to commemorate World Refugee Day, reflecting Christian Aid's foundation in 1945 to respond to the plight of refugees in Europe at the end of the Second World War.

Guests included the Church of Ireland's Primate, Archbishop John McDowell; the Presbyterian Church in Ireland's Moderator, the Rt Revd Dr Trevor Gribben; the Methodist Church in Ireland's President and Lay Leader, the Revd Alan Wardlow and Mrs Elaine Barnett; Junior Minister in the Executive Office, Pam Cameron MLA; the Lord Mayor of Belfast, Councillor Tracy Kelly; and Dr Howard Hastings OBE DL, representing the Lord Lieutenant of Belfast.

Christian Aid's work tackles both the symptoms and root causes of poverty around the world, enabled by its partners, volunteers, staff, member churches, and local congregations and parishes. The service focused on the challenges ahead and recommitted Christian Aid to striving for a world free from the scandal of poverty. Contributions included reflections from Christian Aid's history, and music from Renaissance Choir and Intercultural Worship Ireland.

The Dean and Christian Aid Ireland Chief Executive Rosamond Bennett with the Church leaders - Archbishop John McDowell; the Presbyterian Church in Ireland's Moderator, the Rt Revd Dr Trevor Gribben; the Methodist Church in Ireland's President, the Revd Alan Wardlow.

Bishop Trevor Williams, who was formerly Chair of Christian Aid Ireland, preached on how eternal values enable us to live well together by loving God “with all our heart, soul and mind and our neighbours as ourselves ... and, remember, Jesus showed us in the parable of the Good Samaritan that neighbourliness is caring for those in need.”

He added: “How many times have you said: ‘When I listen to the news, I feel so helpless, the suffering is so awful and there is nothing I can do about it?” I have good news for you, this is precisely why Christian Aid exists.”

Bishop Williams recalled a visit to Mali, in West Africa, during his time as a Christian Aid trustee, in which he visited a village where a large reservoir had been built by local people to irrigate a market garden and provide a reliable and healthy food supply for the community. However, out of all of the progress made, the villagers concluded that the greatest achievement was peace – the resolution of a tense dispute over leadership in the village, settled with the help of the Christian Aid partner agency; this, in turn, enabled all the other life-changing development work to take place.

“Thank God for Christian Aid,” he remarked in conclusion. “For its 80 years of seeking to be an agency of God’s loving concern for the world. For its way of working respecting the dignity, intelligence and integrity of those they work with, and for its commitment to the Churches, to enable us to play our part in being agents of God’s loving concern for all of God’s creation.”

Christian Aid Ireland Chief Executive Rosamond Bennett said that the service was an opportunity to celebrate 80 years of global impact, and to thank the supporters, partners and staff who had made it possible.

She added: “Since 1945, Christian Aid has brought hope to people living in poverty and crisis around the world. Yet our anniversary is also a reminder that our task is incomplete. Conflict, the climate crisis, and inequality for women and girls mean that poverty continues to scar millions of lives. Today, 80 years after we were founded, we recommit ourselves to continuing our work to create a world in which everyone can have a full life, a life free from poverty, a life before death.”

Christian Aid Ireland is sponsored by the Irish Council of Churches and seven church denominations – the Church of Ireland, the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, the Methodist Church in Ireland, the Non-Subscribing Presbyterian Church of Ireland, the Moravian Church in Britain and Ireland, the Salvation Army, and the Society of Friends (Quakers).

Supporters and guests gathered afterwards for refreshments and a further opportunity to catch up and chat about their own memories of being involved in Christian Aid. With thanks to Frank Dillon Photography

Church of Ireland promotes support for refugees

Members of the Church of Ireland share stories on how they welcome and integrate refugees in a new video released today ahead of World Refugee Day on Thursday 20 June.

The film includes interviews with Helen Livingstone and David Maganda from All Nations Ministries in Belfast, and the Revd Abigail Sines and Dr Naomi Masheti from the Carraig Centre and Cork Migrant Centre. It seeks to inspire and encourage local churches to support refugees not only in this year's Refugee Week but at any time throughout the year.

Produced by Pelumi Adewuyi for the Primate's Reference Group on Ethnic Diversity, Inclusion and Racial Justice, the project was funded by the Church of Ireland Priorities Fund. The Primate's Reference Group is an initiative of Archbishop John McDowell, chaired by him with Dr Lucy Michael as the group's secretary.

In a motion proposed by Dr Michael and seconded by Stella Obe at the General Synod's 2023 meeting in Wexford, the General Synod acknowledged 'the impact of anti-refugee and migrant hatred in our communities' and sought suggestions from the Church's dioceses 'regarding ways in which the Church can counter the language of anti-refugee and migrant hatred at the local level and communicate a strong message of Christian welcome to all.'

The video can be viewed on the Church of Ireland's website HERE and its Facebook.

Report by John Toner in Sunday Life yesterday.

Robert Moore (72) appeared at Laganside Magistrates Court in Belfast on Tuesday morning to face a total of seven charges.

Moore, of Circular Road, Newtownabbey, Co Antrim, is charged with fraud by abuse of position, four counts of forgery and two counts of false accounting.

He is also accused of producing four fake accountant's reports under the names of Peter Cosgrove and Aisling McCrory on dates between January 2018 and February 2022.

According to the Charity Commission website, the Central Belfast Contact Centre is “a safe, friendly and neutral place where children of separated families can spend time with one or both parents, and sometimes other family members.”

According to Companies House records Moore was a director of the Central Belfast Contact Centre until resigning his position on February 18, 2022.

He was also formerly a director of several other companies, including the board of St Anne's Cathedral, Church of Ireland Trustees, The Northern Ireland Network of Child Contact Centres and The Church of Ireland Retirement Trust.

JUNE 23, 2025

There is no suggestion of any wrongdoing on the part of Central Belfast Contact Centre or any of the other companies.

Poem for today

Character of a Happy Man

by Sir Henry Wooton

How happy is he born or taught,
That serveth not another's will;
Whose armour is his honest thought,
And simple truth his highest skill;

Whose passions not his masters are;
Whose soul is still prepar'd for death
Untied unto the world with care
Of princes' grace or vulgar breath;

Who envies none whom chance doth raise,
Or vice; who never understood
The deepest wounds are given by praise,
By rule of state, but not of good;

Who hath his life from rumours freed;
Whose conscience is his strong retreat;
Whose state can neither flatterers feed,
Nor ruins make accusers great;

Who God doth late and early pray,
More of his grace than goods to send,

JUNE 23, 2025

And entertains the harmless day
With a well-chosen book or friend.

This man is free from servile bands
Of hope to rise or fear to fall;
Lord of himself, though not of lands;
And having nothing, yet hath all.
